1. In September 1952, the State Management of Material Supplies was converted into a State Secretariat for State Reserves, with Heinz Overbeck at the head, and he was made directly responsible to the Central Committee of the SED. In mid-March 1953, there was a party investigation of Overbeck for unknown reasons, and he was replaced by Udo Wange, a great friend of Alfred Blum. The Secretariat has charge of all state reserves of important materials.

4. Planned production for 1953 is 20,000 tons of carburetants by Leuna, and 20,000 tons of Diesel fuel by the synthetic factory at Schwarzheide, with 80 tons of export oil by the Buna factory at Schkopau. The 80 tons of export oil have been ordered by Karlshorst and from its characteristics, it is probably a special oil for airplane engines.

1. Comment: Sic. According to other reports, the State Secretariat for State Reserves emerged from the State Administration for Material Procurement.
